TIMBER QUEENSLAND MEDIA RELEASE

7 July 2009

For immediate release

QUEENSLAND'S TIMBER EXPERTS DELIVER SOLUTIONS ONLINE

With origins stretching back to 1938, Timber Queensland's history of progressing the timber industry continues with launch of the web based Building Professionals Technical Subscription Service on 1 July 2009.

Delivering builders, architects, specifiers, designers, certifiers and engineers technical timber knowledge, the service is also an opportunity for these professionals to have input as timber related issues develop and guidelines, standards and regulations are prepared.

Timber Queensland's CEO Rod McInnes says the service will save building professionals time and money.

"Keeping abreast of timber specific regulatory changes, product developments and technical review panels is a job in itself," said Rod McInnes.

"However, the recipients of Timber Queensland's expert knowledge and experience will stay ahead of the game," he said.

"Subscribers will receive a regular Technical Update e-newsletter and have access to a password protected Resource Centre on our new website, www.timberqueensland.com.au, providing technical reports, user guides, industry comment, and 31 Technical Data Sheets covering a broad range of technical specification and use issues," he said.

"They can also utilise our 'Ask an Expert' email advice service which provides personalised assistance on any technical timber issue."

To mark the launch of the service Timber Queensland is offering one lucky business a free 12 month subscription the Building Professionals Technical Subscription Service. To enter Building Professionals should simply join and pay their subscription fee by 5pm Friday 14 August 2009. The winning entrant will have their subscription fee refunded.
